

Magic/Power Wands

Magic or Message Wands have been used since ancient times to increase the power of spells. The pointed end of each wand directs the spell energy. The wand is a powerful addition to have on your altar. Wands can be wrapped in silver or copper wire with other gemstones to personalize it.

Your Personal Gemstone Wand

Wands are carved from many gemstones. The gemstone is carved rounded or with several flat sides. A wand can be any length and width. The size of the wand is a personal choice. The choice of gemstone is very personal also. It is best to have several wands, and then you can have a wand for different types of spells.

A personal power wand should be the first wand to have. The personal power wand should be carved from a gemstone that has a special meaning to you. The gemstone may be your power birthstone or any stone that has a personal connection to you. The personal power wand is often adorned with other gem stones. The best way to attach gemstones to a wand is with silver wire. When faceted stones are used, they can be glued to the wand. The wand is a required item in many rituals and the wand always adds power to any spell by keeping it on the altar with the point pointing south.

Wrapping your wand with gemstones

The wand can be wrapped in brass wire or silver wire and other gemstones. Using different gemstones and crystals can change the energy (and purpose) of the wand.

Stability:

- A Jasper wand or Agate wand protects and stabilizes. Wrap an Ametrine stone and Crystal stone onto these and you have a very powerful aid for healing a troubled mind or opening the mind to a higher plane. Just sit with the wand in your hand with the point facing outward and within minutes you should feel changes.

Good Fortune and Success:

- Wrap a citrine gemstone or fluorite onto a Aventurine wand, sit with the point facing outward to bring opportunity and good luck right to you!

Protection:

- Need protection for your home? Wrap a Black Tourmaline onto a Crystal wand or an Black Obsidian Wand or Snowflake Obsidian Wand and take a walk though your home. Use the pointed end of the wand and aim it towards every corner of the room, moving the wand from ceiling to floor, saying, "Seal of protection is now in place, all who dwell herein are safe".

Love:

- To increase the love in your life, wrap a Moonstone Wand or Rose Quartz Wand with a rhodonite stone, rhodochrosite, rose quartz or chrysocolla.

Angelic Guidance:

- A Selenite Wand or Angelite Wand will open guidance and communication from your angel companions. These can be wrapped with any of the throat chakra stones.

There are many types of personal power wands that you can create by studying the meanings of gemstones and combining these to come up with a wand that is personal and powerful for you.

Give Your Gemstone Wand a Tune-Up!

The gemstone wand is one of the most powerful tools that can be used in ritual. The wand may be used for ritual spells or healing help. It is used primarily to focus the intention of the spell or healing.

Choose the wand of a stone that is the basis for ritual. For example:

- An aventurine wand is ideal for anything that involves luck
- An amethyst wand, or sodalite wand is best for intuition or psychic abilities.
- Use a rose quartz wand when you want to attract love
- A moonstone wand will increase passion in your love life.
- A natural quartz crystal wand makes an excellent channel for power and healing.
- An angelite wand or selenite wand will facilitate connection with your angel companions.

Focus the energy by adding stones

To make the wand an even more focused tool, add other stones to it by wrapping these onto the wand with silver wire. Remember, the wand is the primary focus and the additional stones adjust the power as a secondary element.

Let's say I want to attract a new love in my life. I would take a rose quartz wand to attract love and wrap a moonstone onto the rose quartz wand to increase the passion factor. Perhaps I would add an amethyst to this rose quartz wand in order to keep a nice balance with love and passion.

Now, suppose I have been married for several years and I love my spouse, but there isn't much passion any more. In this case, I would start with a moonstone wand for passion; add an emerald to keep my marriage partner faithful and mahogany obsidian for more sensuality. I would advise to do this only on a weekend or vacation.

To become intuitive you may use an amethyst wand with amber for grounding. To get more money, an aventurine wand with a citrine stone wrapped to it works very well.

Here are a few stones that are good to add to the wand and their meanings.

Grounding	Amber
-----------	-------

Balance	Amethyst
Protection in astral travel	Ametrine
Long and happy marriage	Aquamarine
Abundance	Bloodstone
Get rid of negative feelings	Carnelian
Get motivated; attract money	Citrine
Keep your love faithful	Emerald
Communication with fairies & spirits	Fluorite
Strength and courage	Hematite
Stability	Jasper
Sensuality	Mahogany Obsidian or Sunstone
Healing of all kinds	Moss Agate
Staying with your true purpose in life	Rhodochrosite
Love	Rose Quartz
Safety in travel	Turquoise

Clean your wand

Before using or wrapping your wand it should be cleaned. Place the wand in a glass container and completely cover the wand with sea or Kosher salt. Leave the wand in the salt for 6 hours (it can be longer). After the 6 hours, gently rub the wands with the salt. Now place the wands in a window where they will receive the light of the next full moon. Put the wand in the window the day before the full moon and leave them until the day after the full moon. Pour the salt down your kitchen drain, while the hot water is running.

Clean the stones before you wrap them onto the wand. After the wand has been wrapped it is good to pass it in sage incense smoke. Do not allow other people to touch your wand, if they are touched, clean them again as above. If you use your wand more than once a month it should be cleaned again. When not in use, keep your wands on your altar or wrapped in silk in a safe place.
